This adventure jungle expedition is specially designed amidst the wilderness of Aravallis of Udaipur range, India.

Overview

After due thought process and many reconnaissance trips keeping in mind every aspect from untraced paths, area-specific flora and fauna, hardship levels, adventure, accommodation, Knowledge sharing, places of historical and archaeological importance, tourist attractions and every bit one can think of, here we present the One of its kind Event in India – “Pedal To Jungle”.

We do not commit any luxuries of a sophisticated hotel and delicacies of a multi-cuisine restaurant. But yes, Of-course the accommodation will be good tents/ forest rest house at beautiful locations on quad sharing basis. Food will be traditional with lots of healthy elements.

The total trip will be a cycling of around 180 kilometers spread through 3 days starting from Baghdarah Nature Park to Jagat, a temple of historical importance in a small village on the way to Jaisamand Lake. The next day we ride further to Sitamata Wildlife sanctuary and on the third day, we conclude the expedition at Badwai Lake a place for Migratory birds. The trail is such that most of the part is rarely open for general public making the trip all the more exclusive. Since the trip is in collaboration with Forest department, all through the trip forest department officials will accompany us. Specialist in the field, area, and subjects will be available at our stopover points and other important stages of the trip to share their knowledge and experience. The trip will be a treat for Wildlife enthusiast, Bird watching enthusiasts, Photography enthusiasts and off course for the cycling and adventure seekers.
